7:45 am – 8:45 am Identifying and Reducing Diabetic-Related Foot Amputations in District 3

Course#: 180910 CPE: 1.0 Level: Entry Prerequisites: None

A tenet of this project is that socioeconomic factors underlie a large percentage of a person's health and well-being. A number of our team members have dedicated their careers to addressing these disparities and are now focused on District 3, one person, one family, one community at a time. Drs. Lyssa Ochoa and Anil Mangla have identified a vicious cycle of poverty and lack of health insurance, depression, use of the ER for a health care service, and poor diabetes management as primary contributors to the high amputation rate in District 3 [medical health records]. This project's strategy will implement a comprehensive care approach through regular home visits in an effort to realize four key project outcomes: 1.Reduction in ER visits after 1 year 2.Assisting, monitoring, and improving mental health which will improve HbA1c scores 3.Identifying economic benefit of the project 4.Reducing diabetic-related foot amputations after 1 year.

8:45 am – 9:45 am Don't Become A Victim! Five Mistakes People Make With Analytics

Course#: 180911 CPE: 1.0 Level: Entry Prerequisites: None

Analytics can be intimidating. People often go astray by delving into the wrong issues or compiling spreadsheets they don't know what to do with. Analytics doesn't have to be an insurmountable business problem, nor does data have to be a dirty word. With a few simple steps, you can change the way you approach analytics and learn to turn meaningless numbers into actionable insights for process improvement at your organization.
